SHAKLEE CARES LENDS A HELPING HAND
TO HURRICANE LILI RELIEF EFFORTS

Pleasanton, California — Shaklee Cares, a publicly supported charity that provides assistance to victims of in times of emergencies or natural disasters, is donating personal care products to the ongoing recovery and cleanup efforts resulting from recent hurricane that has affected over 70,000 Louisianaans statewide.

Working with the Salvation Army, over 1,600 pounds of goods, valued at almost $40,000 worth of donated Shaklee personal care products, were delivered to the Cajundome Convention Center in Lafayette. Shaklee Independent Distributor Jeanne Hunt, along with a group of local volunteers, is coordinating the distribution of these “Disaster Recovery Packs” to area families and businesses under the supervision of Shaklee Cares Regional Ambassador Bruce Anderson. Shaklee Independent Distributors from around the nation donate money and products year-round to Shaklee Cares so that help is available to those in need when disaster strikes.

“Shaklee Cares’ mission is to restore community health and help people rebuild their lives,” said Robert Schults, President and CEO of Shaklee Corporation and a member of the Board of Directors of Shaklee Cares. “I am pleased that we are able to offer assistance to local residents who were directly affected by the devastating effects of Hurricane Lili.”

Shaklee Cares was established in 1992 in the aftermath of Hurricane Andrew, which devastated parts of Florida. It is committed to helping individuals and communities recover when natural disasters or emergencies strike. For more information, visit www.shakleecares.org.
